Dear Rod,

I am writing in regard to your Fridgetech line of products. My company sells and installs energy efficient systems across the United States. We work with America's third largest ESCO company, Energy Systems Group and America's largest power company, Tennessee Valley Authority, TVA. We were introduced to Fridgetech by one of our suppliers and have used it many times over the past three years in projects with some of Americas largest restaurant chains, such as Shoney's and O'Charley's. Common wisdom in our industry said not to introduce anything new into air and refrigeration compressors. We first tested your product for six months before we dared sell it to our customers. The results we experienced were above expectations and have proven to be a successful tool in recovering lost energy and extending life of compressors.

Scroll compressors were a huge concern of our refrigeration people at first. Of course anytime someone is introduced to something new it seems the best way to handle it is to say it won't work. After much consideration, we decided what we could gain far exceeded the potential loss of a compressor and installed Fridgetech in a scroll compressor. To our delight everything went just as promised if not better. Thank you for this product Rod. It is nice to have something that our competitors don't have and something that is really beneficial to my customers.

Sincerely,

Rickey Gooch
